Dearest Sandy:

Had heard from Jack that you would probably be very busy while he was away, so I guess I haven't expected you to write. I too, have been busy, I must admit but not on the job - O Bay!

I had a real nice visit with Jack and Elizabeth while they were here. We had lunch together and then Elizabeth and I went shopping and Jack met us later for cocktails. I think I felt a little let down after I left them that afternoon. Maybe it was because I expected a message from you - via the Heaneys "a hello" - your love - anything but not a word. I did ask Jack when he thought you would be due a vacation. He seemed to think it would be a long time - possibly next year. No wonder my heart sank. My vacation begins in another week - It doesn't seem possible I'll be going home again so soon.

However, this vacation will have to last me for another year. ha! Wish me a good time, honey!

How wonderful you can see Tom once in a while. It sorta keeps you up on the happenings in his family.
Must get busy!

Love,
Darin

Letter No. 2. May 18, 1950

Sweetheart -

When I wrote you earlier I felt somewhat depressed - forgive me. The fact I hadn't written in several weeks didn't help either - Guess the idea of not seeing you sorta gets me down even though I now have lots of things & people to occupy my mind.

After reading your last sweet letter again I feel so much happier just knowing you sometimes think of me when you are with other girls under your skin eh?

Write when you can, sweetheart - I'm still very fond of you - Love, Dorinda
